Section A – Language under the microscope

Text A

Text A is an extract from a column in the Guardian online newspaper written by Charlie Brooker. He writes a humorous opinion piece every week on a subject of his choice. The article was published on 20 December 2010.

The screenshot shows the Guardian website interface. At the top, there are navigation links for 'sign in', 'subscribe', and 'search'. On the right, there are links for 'jobs', 'soulmates', 'more', and 'edition: UK'. The Guardian logo is prominently displayed in the center. Below the logo, there is a horizontal menu with categories like 'UK', 'world', 'sport', 'football', 'comment', 'culture', 'economy', 'life', 'fashion', 'environment', 'tech', 'money', and 'travel'. A 'home' link is also present. Below the menu, there is a 'comment is free' banner. The main article header is on a yellow background, featuring the title 'How to cut tuition fees' and the author's name 'Charlie Brooker'. A small portrait of Charlie Brooker is visible on the right side of the header. Below the header, the article's lead sentence is: 'We should teach only the useful stuff: scavenging, strangling and how to operate a water cannon'.

You can't put a price on a good education. Except, actually, you can - and it turns out that price is just over £9,000 a year.

Unsurprisingly many students are furious at the hike in tuition fees; but apart from shouting about it or trying to smash the Treasury to bits with sticks, what practical steps can we take to make education more affordable?

Nine thousand pounds a year sounds like a lot - but actually, it's shitloads. Yet it turns out that if you divide shitloads by 52, it comes out at around £173 a week, which sounds more achievable. Especially if your course only lasts seven days. So let's only provide week-long courses.

Obviously, to compress a three-year course into one week, the field of study will have to be streamlined a bit. Whittled down. Reduced to a series of bullet points. But in many cases, that's an advantage.

Take history. There's already far too much of it. In fact, mankind is generating a "past mountain", which grows 24 hours in size every single day. No one can be expected to keep all of that in their head. There simply isn't room. Even award-winning historians will be lost for words if you unexpectedly leap out in front of them and demand they list everything that happened on, say, 6 July 1919, before the special quiz music ends, especially if they thought they were alone in the house.

So instead of studying the whole of human history, why not focus on a concentrated period, such as the most exciting five minutes of the second world war? That way you just get the fun bits with the machine guns and everything, and there's none of that boring exploration of the "consequences" or the "causes" or "how we can stop it happening again". The philosopher George Santayana famously remarked that those who forget history are condemned to repeat it. But if you have forgotten history, you won't know you're repeating it - so it won't matter. And you won't have heard of George Santayana, either. Which is just as well, because, to be honest, he sounds like a bit of a smart arse.

Text B

Text B is a transcription taken from the chat show Friday Night with Jonathan Ross, broadcast on BBC One in September 2007. Simon Pegg is an actor, writer and comedian and Jonathan Ross is the chat show host and comedian. It is a part of an eight minute segment in the show, which at the time had a wide audience of around seven million viewers.

Ross: you're very are you genuinely nerdy or is it something that you've acquired over the years d'you think

Pegg: I'm I'm geeky not nerdy

Ross: is there what's the difference

Pegg: I think I was having this discussion the other day with with Jessica Stevenson who I did Spaced with and she

Ross: who is a brilliant comic actress

Pegg: amazing comic actress incredibly talented (1) err she was we were talkin' about the differences between geeks and nerds and I think err (1) a geek is like an enth an enthusiast someone (.) you're

Ross: // oh yeah

Pegg: a geek and ha - have admitted it so you're a big comic book fan you know your stuff whereas a nerd is someone who's a little bit more sort of you know just the spekky idiot

Ross: socially inept

Pegg: socially inept

Ross: socially inept is a nicer way of saying spekky idiot

Pegg: yeah

[laughter from audience] (2)

Ross: but but I always thought you had nerdish qualities if we wanna pursue this line ah (1) err for example I hope this doesn't embarrass you but I warned Keira Knightly about you before the show

Pegg: yeah

Ross: I bumped into her in the and I said you wanna watch out because

Pegg: // [unclear utterance]

Ross: he's one of those guys who's slightly obsessed about Star Wars

Pegg: right and she was

Ross: // and as you know Keira was err (.) what was Keira in Star Wars

Pegg: she was one of Padme's handmaidens (.) I think I dunno I

Ross: // yeah not not not a lot of people would have got that even Keira has forgotten what she played

Pegg: // but I don't even like but listen

Ross: in Star Wars you know she was one of Padme's handmaidens

Pegg: I wasn't even a fan of the Phan?om Menace but I do know tha? that's that's that's a terrible thing I think

Ross: you you do the err the sound effects from err various Star Wars characters I believe

Pegg: don't try and lure me into some nerd trap

[laughter from audience] (3)

Ross: it's hardly quicksand Pegg

[laughter from audience] (3)

you can get ou? again quickly
