Section A: Analysing Spoken Language

Answer the following question.

1. The three texts printed on pages 4 and 5 are examples of comedy routines.

Text A is a stand-up routine performed by the comedian Sarah Millican describing her experience of using an automated checkout at the supermarket Asda. It was performed live as part of the Royal Variety Show in the Royal Albert Hall.

Text B is a routine performed by the stand-up comedian Michael McIntyre describing his experience of shopping in Argos. It was performed live at the Apollo Theatre.

Text C is a comedy sketch set in a clothing shop which was performed by comedians David Mitchell and Robert Webb on their Channel Four television sketch show 'That Mitchell and Webb Look'.

Drawing on your knowledge of the levels of language, analyse the spoken language of these texts as examples of comedy. Your focus should be on how the performers use language to create comedy, engage the audience and express their attitudes.

In your response, you must also:

- · consider relevant concepts and issues
- explore contextual factors.

¹spiv: period word meaning flashily dressed black marketeer. Used in time of rationing during the 1940s.

Section B: Creative Re-casting

Using the transcripts presented in Section A as stimulus, answer the following question.

2. The Telegraph online recently reported that a Russian inventor is developing a drive-through supermarket, enabling shoppers to purchase food without setting foot outside their vehicles. Customers will be able to drive to a station, select their items from cascading shelves and put them on a conveyor belt. A member of staff will then pack the shopping and hand it to the customer.

The inventor believes that his new system will maximise convenience for busy shoppers, while also providing benefits for major supermarkets, which are losing out to discount grocers.

Imagine you are a working at an advertising agency promoting the drive-through supermarket. Your job is to produce a script (including spoken and non-spoken elements) for a thirty-second advertisement as part of the campaign.

Write the script.

Aim to write approximately 400 words.
