SPEAK UP FOR ANTARCTICA NOW

Call to Action, Berlin, 2022

The fate of Antarctica is decided annually at the Antarctic Treaty Consultative Meeting (ATCM). The yearly meeting is attended by representatives of the 54 member states of the Antarctic Treaty, invited experts and NGOs. Amongst them, only the 29 decision-making countries (the so called 'Consultative Parties') have a right to vote on the governance of what is unquestionably a Global Common. Despite their crucial role in determining the future of our planet, ATCM meetings remain mostly unreported by media and the pressure for accountability is minimal.
