Section A

Mid Tudor Crises 1547–1558

Study the four sources and then answer Question 1.

1 Using these four sources in their historical context, assess how far they support the view that female rule was a serious problem in the 1550s.

[30]

Source A: Edward VI issues his 'Devise for the Succession' setting out who shall succeed to the crown in the event of his death.

Available from: Letters Patent for the limitation of the Crown, 21 June 1553

The extract opens 'As Lady Mary and Lady Elizabeth are both illegitimate' and ends 'to the Lady Jane and her male heirs'.

For other examples of this type of question, please see our past papers, available through our website and Interchange. Alternatively, see our ExamBuilder platform for the full list of relevant mock questions.

Source B: Having disregarded her Council's advice to leave the capital for her own protection, Queen Mary addresses the citizens of London to rally their support against Wyatt's approaching rebels.

Available from Mary I, Guildhall speech, 1 February 1554

The extract opens 'At my coronation, when I was wedded to this realm' and ends 'I am sure we shall speedily overthrow these rebels'.

For other examples of this type of question, please see our past papers, available through our website and Interchange. Alternatively, see our ExamBuilder platform for the full list of relevant mock questions.

Source C: The Act of Parliament for a marriage treaty between Mary I and Prince Philip of Spain sets out the terms to protect English interests.

Available from Act for the Marriage of Queen Mary to Philip of Spain, 1554

The extract starts 'This treaty greatly honours and benefits England' and ends 'the prince shall observe England's peace with France'.

For other examples of this type of question, please see our past papers, available through our website and Interchange. Alternatively, see our ExamBuilder platform for the full list of relevant mock questions.

Source D: A Scottish Calvinist preacher expresses his opinion on female rule.

Available from John Knox, The First Blast of the Trumpet Against the Monstrous Regiment of Women, 1558

The extract starts 'To promote a woman to rule a nation is unnatural' and ends 'their advice, foolishness; and their judgement, frenzy'.
