A Level

Mark Scheme for June 2022

OCR (Oxford Cambridge and RSA) is a leading UK awarding body, providing a wide range of qualifications to meet the needs of candidates of all ages and abilities. OCR qualifications include AS/A Levels, Diplomas, GCSEs, Cambridge Nationals, Cambridge Technicals, Functional Skills, Key Skills, Entry Level qualifications, NVQs and vocational qualifications in areas such as IT, business, languages, teaching/training, administration and secretarial skills.

It is also responsible for developing new specifications to meet national requirements and the needs of students and teachers. OCR is a not-for-profit organisation; any surplus made is invested back into the establishment to help towards the development of qualifications and support, which keep pace with the changing needs of today's society.

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and students, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which marks were awarded by examiners. It does not indicate the details of the discussions which took place at an examiners' meeting before marking commenced.

All examiners are instructed that alternative correct answers and unexpected approaches in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the relevant knowledge and skills demonstrated.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the published question papers and the report on the examination.

MARKING INSTRUCTIONSPREPARATION FOR MARKING SCORIS

1. Make sure that you have accessed and completed the relevant training packages for on-screen marking: scoris assessor Online Training; OCR Essential Guide to Marking.
2. Make sure that you have read and understood the mark scheme and the question paper for this unit. These are posted on the RM Cambridge Assessment Support Portal <http://www.rm.com/support/ca>
3. Log-in to scoris and mark the required number of practice responses (“scripts”) and the number of required standardisation responses.

YOU MUST MARK 5 PRACTICE AND 6 STANDARDISATION RESPONSES BEFORE YOU CAN BE APPROVED TO MARK LIVE SCRIPTS.

MARKING

1. Mark strictly to the mark scheme.
2. Marks awarded must relate directly to the marking criteria.
3. The schedule of dates is very important. It is essential that you meet the scoris 50% and 100% (traditional 40% Batch 1 and 100% Batch 2) deadlines. If you experience problems, you must contact your Team Leader (Supervisor) without delay.
4. If you are in any doubt about applying the mark scheme, consult your Team Leader by telephone or the scoris messaging system, or by email.

5. Crossed Out Responses

Where a candidate has crossed out a response and provided a clear alternative then the crossed out response is not marked. Where no alternative response has been provided, examiners may give candidates the benefit of the doubt and mark the crossed out response where legible.

Rubric Error Responses – Optional Questions

Where candidates have a choice of question across a whole paper or a whole section and have provided more answers than required, then all responses are marked and the highest mark allowable within the rubric is given. Enter a mark for each question answered into RM assessor, which will select the highest mark from those awarded. (The underlying assumption is that the candidate has penalised themselves by attempting more questions than necessary in the time allowed.)

Multiple Choice Question Responses

When a multiple choice question has only a single, correct response and a candidate provides two responses (even if one of these responses is correct), then no mark should be awarded (as it is not possible to determine which was the first response selected by the candidate).

When a question requires candidates to select more than one option/multiple options, then local marking arrangements need to ensure consistency of approach.

Contradictory Responses

When a candidate provides contradictory responses, then no mark should be awarded, even if one of the answers is correct.

Short Answer Questions (requiring only a list by way of a response, usually worth only one mark per response)

Where candidates are required to provide a set number of short answer responses then only the set number of responses should be marked. The response space should be marked from left to right on each line and then line by line until the required number of responses have been considered. The remaining responses should not then be marked. Examiners will have to apply judgement as to whether a 'second response' on a line is a development of the 'first response', rather than a separate, discrete response. (The underlying assumption is that the candidate is attempting to hedge their bets and therefore getting undue benefit rather than engaging with the question and giving the most relevant/correct responses.)

Short Answer Questions (requiring a more developed response, worth two or more marks)

If the candidates are required to provide a description of, say, three items or factors and four items or factors are provided, then mark on a similar basis – that is downwards (as it is unlikely in this situation that a candidate will provide more than one response in each section of the response space.)

Longer Answer Questions (requiring a developed response)

Where candidates have provided two (or more) responses to a medium or high tariff question which only required a single (developed) response and not crossed out the first response, then only the first response should be marked. Examiners will need to apply professional judgement as to whether the second (or a subsequent) response is a 'new start' or simply a poorly expressed continuation of the first response.

6. Always check the pages (and additional objects if present) at the end of the response in case any answers have been continued there. If the candidate has continued an answer there then add a tick to confirm that the work has been seen.
7. Award No Response (NR) if:
 - there is nothing written in the answer space

Award Zero '0' if:

Y307/01

Mark Scheme

- anything is written in the answer space and is not worthy of credit (this includes text and symbols).

Team Leaders must confirm the correct use of the NR button with their markers before live marking commences and should check this when reviewing scripts.

8. The scoris comments box is used by your team leader to explain the marking of the practice responses. Please refer to these comments when checking your practice responses. Do not use the comments box for any other reason.
If you have any questions or comments for your team leader, use the phone, the scoris messaging system, or e-mail.
9. Assistant Examiners will send a brief report on the performance of candidates to their Team Leader (Supervisor) via email by the end of the marking period. The report should contain notes on particular strengths displayed as well as common errors or weaknesses. Constructive criticism of the question paper/mark scheme is also appreciated.
10. For answers marked by levels of response: Not applicable in F501
 - a. To determine the level – start at the highest level and work down until you reach the level that matches the answer
 - b. To determine the mark within the level, consider the following:

Descriptor	Award mark
On the borderline of this level and the one below	At bottom of level
Just enough achievement on balance for this level	Above bottom and either below middle or at middle of level (depending on number of marks available)
Meets the criteria but with some slight inconsistency	Above middle and either below top of level or at middle of level (depending on number of marks available)
Consistently meets the criteria for this level	At top of level

12. Subject Specific Marking Instructions

Question	Answer	Mark	Guidance
1	Evaluate the interpretations in both of the two passages and explain which you think is more convincing as an explanation as to why England went to war with France in 1557. In locating the Interpretations within the wider historical debate, Answers might argue that Interpretation A suggests it has never been satisfactorily explained, but suggests that Stafford's invasion, perhaps with connivance was the trigger. In evaluating Interpretation A, Answers might argue that this view is valid as war was declared soon after Stafford's landing at Scarborough. Answers might argue that Interpretation A is valid as there were rumours "of conspiracy and impending war" (including, for example, a threat to fire the Calais magazine). Answers might argue that Interpretation A is valid as Henry was concerned by the threat of war because of his financial position. Answers might argue that interpretation A is not valid as it ignores the reluctance of the Council to support war and concerns about being dragged into a Habsburg war expressed when Mary married Philip. In locating the Interpretations within the wider historical debate, Answers might argue that Interpretation B argues that war was the result of developments in Europe.	30	The indicative content lists features of the period studied that relate to the question set. Neither significance nor relative importance are attributed to the features listed. The indicative content is intended to reflect the knowledge and understanding a candidate is likely to analyse and evaluate in order to arrive at a judgement in line with the question set. - No set answer is expected - At Level 5 and above answers will evaluate both interpretations, locating them within the wider historical debate about the issue and using their own knowledge, and reach a balanced judgement as to which they consider the most convincing about the issue in the question. - To be valid, judgements must be supported by relevant and accurate material. - Knowledge must not be credited in isolation, it should only be credited where it is used to analyse and evaluate the interpretations, in line with descriptions in the levels mark scheme

Question			Answer	Mark	Guidance
2*			In evaluating Interpretation B, • Answers might argue it is valid as Philip did arrive in England to try and obtain support but the Council was hostile as war not to England's benefit. • Answers might argue that interpretation B is valid as Henry II had given aid to English rebels during Mary's reign. • Answers might argue that interpretation B is valid as Pope Paul was anti-Spanish, excommunicating Philip and demanding Pole returned to Rome. • Answers might argue that interpretation B is not valid as it was only with Stafford's landing that war was declared.	25
			'Security was a more important objective than economic gain.' How far do you agree with this view of Tudor foreign policy? In supporting the hypothesis in the question, • It might be argued that Henry VII was concerned with security, even undertaking trade embargoes when protection was given to Warbeck. • Answers might consider that Elizabeth sacrificed trade to prevent the Channel coming under Spanish control. • Answers might consider that Henry VIII spent the gains from the dissolution on fortifications and defence of the south coast.

The indicative content lists features of the period studied that relate to the question set. Both features that support the hypothesis and features that challenge the hypothesis are detailed.

Neither significance nor relative importance are attributed to the features listed.

The indicative content is intended to reflect the knowledge and understanding a candidate is likely to analyse and evaluate in order to arrive at a judgement in line with the question set.

- No set answer is expected.
- At higher levels answers might establish criteria against which to judge.
- To be valid, judgements must be supported by relevant and accurate material.

3			• Answers might consider that throughout the period monarchs were concerned with the security of the northern border with Scotland. • Answers might consider that Henry VII went to war with France because of security concerns over the Channel if Brittany came under French control. In challenging the hypothesis in the question, • It might be argued that numerous trade agreements were signed by Henry VII. • Answers might consider that Elizabeth sought an alternative to the Antwerp mart as the cloth trade was important. • Answers might consider that England attempted, at least in the early part, to maintain good relations with the Habsburgs because of the cloth trade. • Answers might consider that Spanish treasure ships were attacked and that could lead to an attack from Spain, as could incursions into the New World.	25	• Knowledge must not be credited in isolation. It should only be credited where it is used as the basis for analysis and evaluation, in line with descriptions in the levels mark scheme.
			To what extent did England pursue a consistent policy towards Burgundy and the Netherlands in the period from 1485 to 1603? In supporting the hypothesis that the policy was consistent, • It might be argued that monarchs attempted to maintain peace with the Burgundian dukes and Habsburgs because of the cloth trade. 4			• Answers might consider that the policy was consistent as they did not want the Channel under the control of one power (France/Habsburgs). • Answers might consider that the policy was consistent because of the desire for good relations with Spain as a counter to France and that for most of the period England was allied with Spain. • Answers might consider that there was a consistent policy because France was the traditional enemy. • Answers might consider that there was consistency in the period until c1580 because of the desire to maintain good relations with Spain. In challenging the hypothesis, • It might be argued that the Dutch revolt led to a change in policy. • Answers might consider that Elizabeth was more concerned with supporting fellow Protestants than retaining good relations with Spain. • Answers might consider that there was not a consistent policy as Henry VII used trade embargoes against other countries when there were potential claimants to the throne there. • Answers might consider that policy towards Burgundy/Netherlands depended on relations with Spain. ‘Foreign relations had a serious impact on relations with Ireland.’ How far do you agree? In arguing that foreign relations did have a serious impact on relations with Ireland,	25	• At higher levels answers might establish criteria against which to judge • To be valid, judgements must be supported by relevant and accurate material. • Knowledge must not be credited in isolation, it should only be credited where it is used as the basis for analysis and evaluation, in line with descriptions in the levels mark scheme. 	• It might be argued that Spain provided support for Tyrone's rebellion and made it harder to suppress. • Answers might consider the support of foreign powers for Yorkist pretenders, based in Ireland, during the reign of Henry VII. • Answers might consider that governments were concerned that Ireland could be used as a base from which to attack England, particularly after the break with Rome. • Answers might consider the impact of the Break with Rome and Henry VIII's desire that Ireland reject the Pope and this policy continued under Elizabeth. • Answers might consider that war with France and Scotland in the 1540s forced Henry VIII to suspend the enforcement of the new constitution. • Answers might consider that foreign policy had an impact on Ireland when national security was threatened, as with the Fitzgerald rebellion. In arguing that foreign relations did not have a serious impact, • It might be argued that religion had a greater impact. • Answers might consider that the English government's desire to increase its control in Ireland had a serious impact. • Answers might consider that for much of the period Ireland was neglected and therefore foreign policy had little impact. • Answers might consider the role of colonization under Somerset, Mary and Elizabeth and how that affected Irish support for foreign powers.		The indicative content is intended to reflect the knowledge and understanding a candidate is likely to analyse and evaluate in order to arrive at a judgement in line with the question set. • No set answer is expected • At higher levels answers might establish criteria against which to judge • To be valid, judgements must be supported by relevant and accurate material. • Knowledge must not be credited in isolation, it should only be credited where it is used as the basis for analysis and evaluation, in line with descriptions in the levels mark scheme.

Question			Answer	Mark	Guidance

APPENDIX 1 – this contains a generic mark scheme grid

	AO3: Analyse and evaluate, in relation to the historical context, different ways in which aspects of the past have been interpreted.
	Generic mark scheme for Section A, Question 1: Interpretation [30]
Level 6 26–30 marks	The answer has a very good focus on the question throughout. It has thorough and sustained evaluation of the interpretations, using detailed and accurate knowledge of the historical context and the wider historical debate around the issue, in order to produce a convincing and supported analysis of them in relation to the question.
Level 5 21–25 marks	The answer has a good focus on the question throughout. It has good evaluation of the interpretations, using relevant knowledge of the historical context and the wider historical debate around the issue, in order to produce a supported analysis of them in relation to the question.
Level 4 16–20 marks	The answer is mostly focused on the question. It has evaluation of the interpretations based on generally relevant knowledge of the historical context and the wider historical debate around the issue, in order to produce an analysis of them in relation to the question.
Level 3 11–15 marks	The answer is partially focused on the question. It has partial evaluation of the interpretations based on some knowledge of the historical context and the wider historical debate around the issue. There may be some use of information from one of the two interpretations to support the evaluation of the other, but the evaluation will not rely on this. There is a limited analysis of the interpretations in relation to the question.
Level 2 6–10 marks	The answer has a limited focus on the question. Parts of the answer are just description of the interpretations, with evaluation in relation to historical context and the wider historical debate around the issue being weak, and evaluation relying heavily on information drawn from the other interpretation. There is a very limited analysis of the interpretations in relation to the question.
Level 1 1–5 marks	The answer has some relevance to the topic, but not the specific question. The answer consists mostly of description of the interpretations with very limited evaluation based on very generalised knowledge of historical context and minimal or no reference to the wider historical debate. Analysis of the interpretations in relation to the question is either in the form of assertion or lacking.

0 marks	No evidence of understanding and no demonstration of any relevant knowledge.

	AO1: Demonstrate, organise and communicate knowledge and understanding to analyse and evaluate the key features related to the periods studied, making substantiated judgements and exploring concepts, as relevant, of cause, consequence, change, continuity, similarity, difference and significance.
	Generic mark scheme for Section B, Questions 2, 3 and 4: Essay [25]
Level 6 21–25 marks	The answer has a very good focus on the question. Detailed and accurate knowledge and understanding is used to analyse and evaluate key features of the period studied in order to reach a fully developed synthesis supporting a convincing and substantiated judgement. There is a well-developed and sustained line of reasoning which is coherent and logically structured. The information presented is entirely relevant and substantiated.
Level 5 17–20 marks	The answer has a good focus on the question. Generally accurate and detailed knowledge and understanding is used to analyse and evaluate key features of the period studied in order to reach a developed synthesis supporting a substantiated judgement. There is a well-developed line of reasoning which is clear and logically structured. The information presented is relevant and in the most part substantiated.
Level 4 13–16 marks	The answer is mostly focused on the question. Relevant knowledge and understanding is used to analyse and evaluate key features of the period studied in order to reach a synthesis supporting a reasonable judgement. There is a line of reasoning presented with some structure. The information presented is in the most-part relevant and supported by some evidence.
Level 3 9–12 marks	The answer has a partial focus on the question. Some relevant knowledge and understanding is used to analyse and explain key features of the period studied in order to attempt an undeveloped synthesis, which is linked to a judgement, though the supporting explanation may lack detail and clarity. The information has some relevance and is presented with limited structure. The information is supported by limited evidence.
Level 2 5–8 marks	The answer has only a limited focus on the question. Limited relevant knowledge and understanding is used to give a limited explanation and analysis of key features of the period studied. There is a judgement but this may not be clearly linked with the supporting explanation. The information has some relevance, but is communicated in an unstructured way. The information is supported by limited evidence and the relationship to the evidence may not be clear.

Mark Scheme

June 2022

Level 1 1–4 marks	The answer has a limited focus on the topic, but not the specific question. The answer is largely descriptive, with only very generalised knowledge of the period studied being used to attempt basic explanation and very limited analysis. Judgements are unsupported and are not linked to analysis. Information presented is basic and may be ambiguous or unstructured. The information is supported by limited evidence.
0 marks	The answer contains no relevant information.
