The importance of the actions of the USSR and the USA for the outbreak of the Six Day War (1967).

Relevant points may include:

- The USSR considered Syria as a key ally in the Middle East and saw an opportunity to expand its influence in the region, thus pushing for Egyptian action.
- The intervention of the USSR, by inaccurately warning the Egyptian government of Israeli armed forces being moved to the border with Syria, put pressure on Nasser to act.
- The US suggestion that Israel open the Straits of Tiran was taken as a signal for Israel to undertake military action.
- The USA had provided financial aid to Israel, which allowed for the development of industries, including defence, which made the Israelis more prepared in the event of war.

The importance of PLO activities in Lebanon (1970-82) for Israeli security.

Relevant points may include:

- Due to the closer proximity and access to long range weapons, the PLO could now frequently bombard Jewish settlements in the Galilee region from Southern Lebanon.
- In an attempt to provide security, United Nations peacekeeping forces were sent to the border between Lebanon and Israel.
- The PLO increased in size due to the large number of Palestinian refugees in camps in Lebanon, resulting in more attacks on Israel.
- Israel felt threatened due to PLO attacks in 1978 and 1982 and subsequently launched attacks on Lebanon to counter the increased threat.
