QUESTION 1

Study the sources below and then answer the question which follows.

Source A

You wretches who seek equality with lords are unworthy to live. Give this message to your colleagues. Peasants you were and peasants you are still. You will remain in bondage not as before but under much harsher conditions. For as long as we live, we will strive to oppress you. Your misery will be an example to everyone.

[King Richard II speaking to a group of rebels at Walthamstow, London, 22 June 1381]

Source B

Although they have been harshly punished and lords are seeking to control their wages, many peasants know they are important and are moving between manors. Their bond to the land has been made weaker during these years. The King is now wary of taxing the poor for the war against the French.

[Henry Knighton, a priest, in his chronicle Knighton's Chronicon, written c.1385]

Read the interpretation below and then answer the question which follows.

The monarchy always needed money to pay for the lavish, wasteful lifestyle of the court and its hangers-on. In 1381 the hated John of Gaunt persuaded Parliament to levy a poll tax on every person over fifteen years of age. This would have been an enormous burden for the vast majority of English families. The poll tax was so hated it sparked off the revolt and was the main reason for the uprising.

[David Brandon, a Marxist historian, writing in an article entitled "The Peasants' Revolt", published on the website of the organisation, Socialist Appeal [socialist.net] in 2008.

This website strongly supports the interests of the working class.]

How far do you agree with this interpretation of the causes of the Peasants' Revolt?	[16]
[In your answer you should refer to how and why interpretations of this issue differ. Use your own knowledge and understanding of the wider historical debate over this issue to reach a well-supported judgement.]
