QUESTION 1

Study the sources below and then answer the question which follows.

Source A

Homosexual behaviour between consenting adults in private should no longer be considered a criminal offence ... There must remain a realm of private morality and immorality which is not the law's business. It is not, in our view, the function of the law to intervene in the private life of citizens, or to seek to enforce any particular pattern of behaviour.

QUESTION 5

Read the interpretation below and then answer the question which follows.

In East London, the National Front fascists tried to feed off the resentment of many poor, white Eastenders by telling them that the problems of terrible housing and low paid jobs was to do with us black people. However, despite the hatred, the racists did not have much influence in Britain during the 1970s and there was a lot of racial integration.

[Maureen Stephenson, a retired trade unionist, writing in an article entitled “Beating the Nazis in the 1970s: We did it before and we’ll do it again”, published on the pro-immigration Socialist Workers Party website [socialistworker.co.uk] in 2009]

How far do you agree with this interpretation of the impact of immigration on British society during this period? [16]

[In your answer you should refer to how and why interpretations of this issue differ. Use your own knowledge and understanding of the wider historical debate over this issue to reach a well-supported judgement.]

Marks for spelling, punctuation and the accurate use of grammar and specialist terms are allocated to this question. [3]
